Property owners refuse township bill

Property owners along North Water Street and Minden Township council appear to have reached a stalemate in their discussions over who should pay for culverts and ditches installed along a portion of the road in 1979.

A delegation of home owners, representing six families, appeared before the council July 23 to present their case.

The property owners are upset because the municipality has sent them an invoice for $50 to cover the cost of installing culverts in each driveway along the street. They have refused to pay the bill and the municipality has indicated that if it is not paid, the amount will be added to next year's tax bill for the properties concerned.

Spokesman for the property owners is resident Bill Obee. In a letter signed by the six and read at the July 23 meeting, the homeowners complained that since the municipality carried out improvements to the road in front of their properties they have experienced problems with water lying in ditches.

The home owners admit that some water was evident on two properties during the spring and following heavy rains, prior to the work being done. They noted, however, that since the road in front of their properties had been resurfaced, the lawns in front of all six homes collect water. The road was resurfaced following the installation of sewer and water lines.

The municipality also installed culverts at each of the six driveways when the roadwork was carried out, but according to the residents, the pipes are six to eight inches above the bottom of the ditches.

The property owners are adamant that the municipality acted on its own when installing the culverts. "At no time were the property owners ever consulted regarding the installation of driveway culverts and ditching," the letter states. It goes on to note that no permission was received from any of the property owners and two residents actually objected to the work when it was being carried out.

The letter points out that the standing water is a hazard to children in the area, especially in the spring when the ditches are filled with the winter run-off.

The residents point out that the policy of all other government bodies is to pay for the cost of culverts when road work is carried out that affects an existing entrance. "All of the entrances existed long before the ditching was carried out," the letter to the council points out. Apparently the newest driveway was installed 25 years ago, "any culvert installed after that time is the responsibility of the municipality."

The letter states that that the municipality was in error in sending the invoices to the property owners and it requests the township to "...fix-up the existing hazard before someone gets injured."

Those signing the letter included Mr. and Mrs. Al Coneybeare, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Graham, Mrs. Alberta Maitland, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McInerney, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Obee and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Penfold.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt explain that last year the council was in the process of paving Anson Street, on the other side of the village, but felt it might be possible to resurface North Water Street as well if the residents were to help pay for the installation of the culverts. He said that the road superintendent, Earl Kent, spoke to several residents about the work being considered for the area.

Kent told the meeting that he discussed the matter with several residents in the area, but could not come to an agreement with them concerning the cost of installing the culverts.

Councillor Lyle McKnight agreed with this comment. He said that Kent had reported to the council that the residents would not pay. This took place, according to McKnight, prior to the paving work being carried out.

Reeve Nesbitt told the delegation that the council would have been better off to leave the road in the condition it was in and concentrated the resurfacing efforts on Anson Street. The reeve agreed that having a ditch in front of a home is not a most desirable situation, "...but in some places it is necessary," he told the meeting.

The reeve told the delegation that unless they pay the $50 invoice, it will be added to their tax bill. Councillor Stu Brandon suggested that in lieu of that, the culverts could be removed.

One property owner responded that such action would be fine with him, "You can take mine out anytime," commented Al Coneybeare, who claims the situation has lowered the value of his home. "Just fill in the ditches."

Single car mishap takes man's life

A 22 year old Scarborough man is dead and his twin brother is in hospital with serious injuries after the car in which they were travelling hit a large rock face July 23.

The 1972 car was travelling south on Highway 35, south of Carnarvon. As the vehicle entered a gradual curve in the road the car went onto the shoulder, into a ditch and struck the rockface.

Damage to the car was estimated at $7000.

Coroner Dr. H. E. Good pronounced Gordon Mitschele, of Kingston Rd. in Scarborough dead at the scene. A post mortem was carried out July 24 at Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Karl Mitschele, the deceased's brother was rushed to Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay.

Constable Bob Pearson investigated. It is unclear who the driver of the car was at the time of the accident.

This past weekend was definitely an ideal time for kicking up one's heels, especially if attending the second annual Fun Day in Stanhope Township. This father, who also happened to be taking part in the shoe toss, was obviously in the spirit of things. For more pictures of the day's activities turn to page 5.

Guild and council find grounds for understanding

The Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts has found support from Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council after all.

And, on the other hand, the president of the association, Mary Wallace, agreed that the Guild would "try harder" to have shows and other activities in this community.

The amicable solution was reached at the July 23 meeting of the council when the Guild president appeared to make a presentation to the councillors. Her visit was prompted by comments made earlier this month by councillor Stuart Brandon.

In response to a request for financial assistance for one aspect of the Guild's work, Councillor Brandon wondered why more activities sponsored by the organization did not take place in this community, since it claimed to be serving the entire county.

Wallace told the councillors that the Guild has over 300 members and that 84 of these are Minden and area residents, including herself. She said the organization has sponsored some craft shows in Minden, including a sale and show during the winter carnival, a booth at the fall fair and are participating in the Rotary Carnival arts and crafts show which begin today. She noted that the winter carnival show was cancelled two years ago because of lack of interest. It was held in the municipal offices.

She also told the group that a pottery course was offered in Minden at Hyland Crest several years ago but that it had to be cancelled because of the fire hazard created by the kiln.

"We have tried to hold various activities here," Wallace told the council, "but volunteers can only be spread so far." Wallace had explained to the council that the Guild has only one full-time employee and the remaining workers are volunteers.

She told the council that the Guild hopes the Rail's End

Health unit will not approve exemptions

Plans to allow residents of Minden Village to continue using septic systems if they do not wish to connect to the municipal sewers may have suffered a setback Wednesday.

At least six applications for exemption from the requirement that residences in the community hook into the municipal system were returned to the council by the Haliburton-Kawartha-Pine Ridge Health Unit. Officials from the health unit have been asked to approve requests received from village residents to be exempted from the mandatory hook-up to the municipal system.

In a letter to the Minden council, read at the July 23 meeting, a representative of the health unit said it would be impossible to approve the continued use of the septic systems as the organization had no record of the units.

"A search of our records on these properties with regard to the type and size of sewage systems serving these premises has shown that we have no details," the letter stated. The spokesman noted that most septic systems are covered with two feet of earth and a visual inspection by a member of the health unit would reveal limited information. "Uncovering the septic system (by our inspectors) would prove impractical," the letter stated.

The spokesman stated that the systems could be undersized, improperly installed, or barely meeting the demands of the present occupants of the building it is serving.

"If the septic system is subjected to increased or different use, it could fail and have to be replaced, repaired or an addition added to it," the letter stated.

"We therefore cannot approve the exemptions on the enclosed applications and are returning them unsigned to you," the letter concluded.

Earlier this month the council approved a motion which would have permitted village residents to not connect their homes or businesses to the recently installed sewer system. Under the provisions of the motion those seeking an exemption for the requirement would still have to pay the charges that would normally be assessed for sewer services. The property owner, however, would not have to meet the expense of having the sewer connection installed.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt told the meeting that the municipality would probably have to waive the health inspection requirement as part of the exemption program.

Councillor McKnight suggested that any resident who is having problems with the existing septic system would probably be eager to hook into the municipal system. He proposed that the council place a restriction on improvements and additions to existing systems. McKnight said that anyone applying to upgrade or add onto their present system should be made to connect to the municipal system.

Councillor Stu Brandon noted that the only other option was to have a complete inspection of the septic systems. Reeve Nesbitt pointed out that carrying out a complete inspection would entail a great deal of work.

The council then agreed to waive the health inspection provisions and allow those residents who wish to use septic systems, to continue to do so. At the same time notice was given that any additions or alterations to existing systems would not be permitted and that those requesting them would be required to connect their premises to the municipal systems immediately.

Another delay in noise trial

The hearing into a charge that the owner of the Rockcliffe Hotel in Minden caused a disturbance by allowing excessive noise at his establishment has been put over to later this fall. The postponement of the hearing followed a presentation by defense lawyer E.J. Gardiner before Judge G.F. Inrig in Provincial Court Tuesday.

The defense lawyer claimed that the wording of the charge laid against his client indicated that there was more than one offense committed and that each should be treated separately rather than as one. The wording of the charge states that the owner of the hotel has been responsible for, "...unlawfully causing, or emitting or permitting the emission of sounds ... produced as a result of electronic devices."

Gardiner cited a number of precedents. He said the wording of the charge could be interpreted in such a manner so that the owner of the hotel would be facing up to 15 separate charges. Describing the wording of the charge as "multifarious", Gardiner requested that the judge dismiss the charge against his client.

The lawyer for the municipality, Fraser Rogers, told the judge that in his investigation of the defense contention, the only reason for having the charge dismissed would be if the defendant was unable to determine exactly what he was charged with. "There is no question the accused knows what the charge is," Rogers told the court. "He is the owner of the hotel and he is responsible for hiring the entertainment for the establishment."

The original charge against the hotel owner arose last summer when a number of area residents complained about noise coming from the hotel late in the evening. A complaint was signed by a member of the community, Gord Monk, and the municipality formally pressed the charge under its noise by-law. Following a number of delays the charge was dismissed by the judge on a technicality concerning the form being used by the municipality. The charge was relaid and was to have been heard today.

Judge Inrig said he would need time to study the cases cited by the defense counsel before ruling on the case.

The hearing will resume October 28.

Hustlers take Woodville 1-0

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers continue to lead the Tri-County Fastball League following a game last Tuesday (July 22) evening in Woodville. The local squad downed their hosts by a 1-0 margin.

Jack Snell, one of the big reasons for the success of the team this year, was the winning pitcher. The winning run was brought home by Barry Shaw. He popped a sacrifice fly to bring Brian Shaw across the plate.

The Hustlers are home this evening (July 30) in the second to last game of the season. They face the Lindsay Seniors at the Minden diamond. The last game of the 1980 schedule for the Hustlers, before they head into the play-offs, will be against Bobcaygeon. The game is slated for August 6 at the Minden diamond.

Tournament loss

The Hustlers participated in a tournament Sunday in Woodville meeting many of their rivals from the Tri-County circuit. In a three game effort, the local team won two and lost the final.

Snell led the squad to a 4-2 victory over Woodville in the first contest while Craig Stamp was the winning pitcher in the second game. In that encounter the Minden nine downed Fenelon Falls by a 3-2 edge. Stamp also connected for a home run and the winning run in the game.

The final contest saw the local squad go down to a 3-1 loss at the hands of the Lindsay Jr. squad. Jack Snell took the loss, his first of the 1980 season in regular or tournament play.

Understanding

Station Gallery will be a hub for the county with shows travelling from there to various municipal centres. She noted that an enquiry about suitable space for a show in Minden resulted in the council chambers being offered. These she said were unsuitable for a show.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt suggested that one the library-cultural centre complex is completed the municipality will have an ideal location for such events.

Wallace said the members of the Guild "felt bad" about the report in the newspaper. She pointed out that the Guild's choral society, which included many Minden area members, has held a number of performances in the community.

She said a series of four concerts planned for this winter, featuring various artists, had special requirements. "Maureen Forrester, for example, will need a grand piano that is in tune. If you were willing to provide a free hall with a piano, we would be willing to consider holding that concert here," she stated.

Councillor Stuart Brandon commented that he had quizzed a number of people in the community as to what the Guild actually does here. "No one knew," he commented. Referring to the calendar of events handed out by the Guild president, Brandon pointed out that all the events listed were taking place in Haliburton Village.

Wallace responded by saying that if there was a group in Minden willing to assist with a show here, the Guild would be willing to try. She admitted that the organization must try harder in organizing activities in this community. She also pointed out that one of the schedules referred to by Brandon was for shows at the Station gallery and there are fewer Guild activities during the summer months.

Councillor Lyle McKnight wondered if the Minden members of the Guild were unwilling to help put on shows here. He noted that six of the fourteen members of the board of directors come from this community.

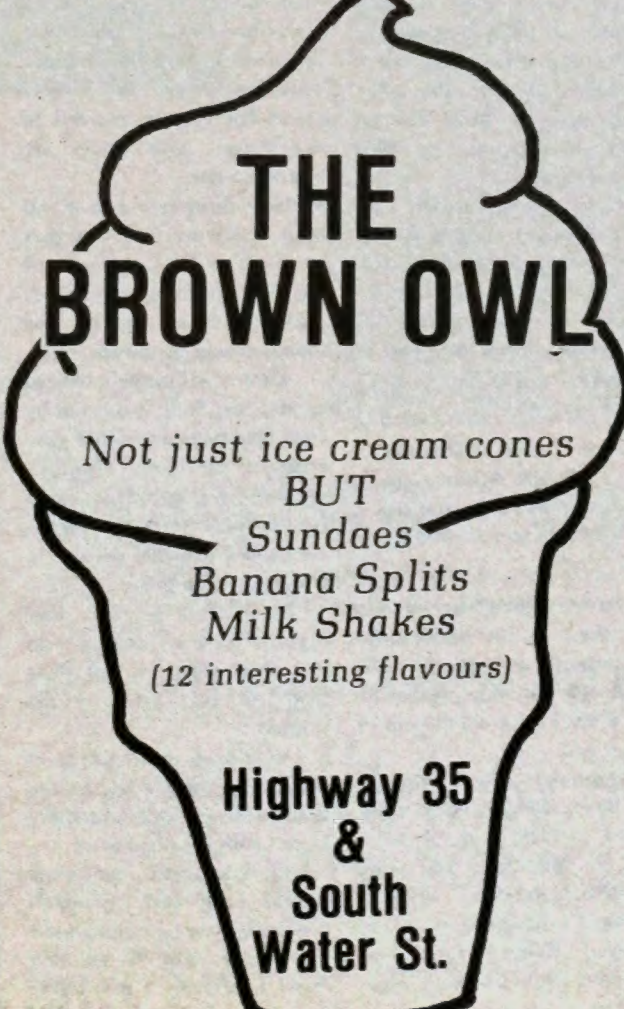

Wallace described the situation as an "unfortunate lack of communications" between the council and the Guild.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt suggested that the Guild might find support from Minden council if a formal presentation was made early in the year before the budget is set. "If you came before the council and explained what you are doing, we might be able to offer you $400 to $500 in support", the reeve stated.

Later in the meeting the council approved a $30 donation to the Guild to help cover the cost of scholarships to various courses offered by Sir Sandford Fleming College. The scholarships were offered as prizes to elementary school students who participated in an arts and crafts competition earlier this year and to participants in the annual Guild of Fine Arts Summer Exhibition and Sale held recently in Haliburton.

Inviting disaster

The action of Anson, Hindon, and Minden Township council Wednesday last in allowing the continued use of septic systems in the village without an inspection from the local health unit is short-sighted and could result in serious consequences for the community.

Earlier this month, the council passed a resolution exempting certain owners of premises in the area served by the sewage treatment plant from connecting to the municipal system. Those who wished to continue to use septic systems were required to make formal application to the municipality and have their present system approved by the health unit. In addition, those property owners had to agree to pay their share of the sewerage rates assessed to each property in the community.

The Haliburton - Kawartha - Pine Ridge Health Unit refused to approve a number of exemption requests, however. In a letter read at Wednesday's meeting, the health unit returned, unsigned, six applications for an exemption. The letter explained that the systems were installed before the health unit began serving this area, some 11 years ago, and so no record of the size or type of installation existed in their files. Without going to the expense and trouble of unearthing each unit it is virtually impossible for the health unit inspectors to assess the adequacy of a septic system.

During the past several years this municipality and the Ontario government have gone to a great deal of expense and trouble to have the sewer system installed in this community. A large sewage treatment plant was constructed and the necessary pipes were installed throughout the community. The purpose of the installation was to rid the village of the serious potential health hazard created by outdoor privies, poorly constructed disposal systems and other hazards associated with a heavy concentration of septic systems in a relatively small area.

While it is reasonable for the municipal council to give residents at least several years to complete connections to the central system, providing loop-holes and exemptions completely undermines the purpose for which the central system was installed in the first place.

A central sewage treatment system is provided in a built up area, not as a convenience to the residents, although it may indeed be that, but rather as a first line of defence against a serious potential health hazard and to protect the environment.

Obviously every residence and business in the village cannot be connected to the central system all at once. The logistics of such a plan would simply overwhelm the available resources. However, over a reasonable amount of time, several years at the most, all premises in the community should be connected to the system.

In the interim, it is fair to expect those who have not connected to the system to help bear the cost of the operation by being assessed sewerage charges. But simply because a property owner is willing to pay, even though his dwelling is not connected to the system, is no reason to exempt him from his obligation of, by a certain date, connecting to the sewers. It is not a question of who pays, everyone should, but rather a matter of the entire community and surrounding environment being protected from poorly maintained or inadequate disposal systems.

The council has suggested that no repairs, alterations or additions can be made to existing septic systems. Applicants for such work will be told they must connect to the municipal system. This is an additional invitation to disaster.

The resident who is now unwilling to connect to the municipal system, will no doubt be equally unwilling to do so five or ten years from now when, for example, his septic system breaks down. Any thought of repairing or replacing the faulty system will be blocked by the knowledge that bringing it to the municipality's attention will mean connecting to the central system. In the meantime, his own health, his neighbour's and the community's will be at risk.

It is time the council took a stand on this matter. This is not an item to be soft-pedaled simply because there is an election coming. The council should set a reasonable deadline and inform those property owners in the village who have not connected to the central system that they must do so by the end of the time limit. To offer loop-holes and exemptions belittles the reasoning behind the construction of the sewage treatment facility in Minden and potentially jeopardises the health of everyone in the community.

Recent high water levels on the Gull River have inundated the government dock installed last year in Minden. It is unfortunate that the levels could not be lowered to allow boaters to use the dock during the day. This photograph was taken Monday when rain had chased most of the boats from the water, but on other days boaters have had difficulty landing and keeping dry feet at the town dock.

REPORT FROM QUEEN'S PARK

By John Eakins, M.P.P.

Acid Rain Monitoring Stations: Two networks of air monitoring stations consisting of instruments to measure deposition and to identify sources of acid rain and other pollutants related to long-range air transport are being set up in 45 locations throughout the province.

The two new monitoring networks are complimentary but will yield different information. One is designed as a "true event" network which operates on a daily weather basis. The other is a "cumulative" network sampling precipitation and particulate matter on a monthly basis. Both are designed to collect "wet" deposition (precipitation such as rain and snow) and "dry" deposition (particulate matter, and sometimes gaseous substances).

All samples collected will be analyzed at the Ministry of the Environment's Toronto laboratories using special equipment required to detect low levels of airborne contaminants.

Daily "Event" Network: The "event" network is being set up in the areas of London, Dorset and Kingston, with each centre having five collection or monitoring sites clustered within a radius of 50 to 100 kilometres.

The Dorset location was chosen because of the major acid rain studies in progress there already.

The London and Kingston areas were chosen to provide information of local acidic deposition from major north-eastern continental sources.

This network utilizes highly sensitive equipment at each of its 15 monitoring sites for the sampling of atmospheric pollutants. The instrumentation is specifically designed to sample particulate and gaseous sulphur and nitrogen compounds for 24-hour periods.

"Cumulative" Monthly Network: The "Cumulative" network consists of 30 sites, ranging in location from the Windsor area northwest to the -Kenora region and northeast to James Bay, down the Ottawa River, south to Alexandria in Glengarry County, and westward to sites scattered throughout south central Ontario. Each of these monitoring stations will be equipped with automatically operated Sangamo "double bucket" collectors to measure both "wet" and "dry" deposition, with samples collected monthly for laboratory analysis.

In addition, 20 of these stations will be equipped with instrumentation to collect monthly samples of particulate sulphate, nitrate, ammonium and gaseous SO₂, in their immediate vicinity.

Together, the two monitoring networks will enable scientists to gather needed information on the range and extent of acidic precipitation, and its strength, in all regions of the province. By applying all of this data to information gleaned from Ministry studies focused mainly in the Muskoka/Haliburton and Sudbury regions - areas considered to be environmentally vulnerable - the Ministry expects to be able to extrapolate its current and anticipated scientific findings on lake deterioration rates due to acid rain input to widely scattered regions of the entire province.

A Problem for Farmers

By W. Roger Worth

Consumers are quick to complain about rising food prices, many times blaming Canada's farmers.

Yet most city dwellers simply fail to understand the problems and risks involved in producing the crops that allow Canadians to spend less on food than people in most other countries.

Even now, farmers are getting set for the barrage of criticism that is bound to follow expected food price increases as a result of this year's disastrous drought in Western Canada.

Roger Worth is Director, Public Affairs, Canadian Federation of Independent Business.

Here's what's happening in the West as the agricultural community attempts to contend with hardship created by the driest Prairie summer in 19 years.

- This year's wheat crop will be down 25% - 30% compared to 1979, probably driving up the price of many foodstuffs by 15% - 20%.
- Many farmers have already plowed under crops and reseeded with livestock feeds such as grain and corn. Now they are praying these crops won't be killed by an early frost.

- Those in the beef industry have been selling off parts of their herds at rock-bottom prices because they can't find or afford to feed the animals. This has driven down beef prices for consumers, but in the longer term prices are bound to rise.
- Dairy farmers are in a real bind. They are forced to pay as much as $3 for a bale of hay that normally sells for $1, making many operations money-losing propositions.

A lot of consumers believe farmers are fully protected by crop insurance and other government subsidies. That's a myth. Such programs normally cover only the cost of fertilizers and chemicals needed to make the crop grow.

In fact, it is clear that many Western farmers will lose their shirts, if not their land, in this year of the drought.

All this is perhaps as it should be, with those in the agriculture business accepting large losses in a bad year.

But Canadian consumers should keep this summer's problems in mind when food prices rise. For if farming doesn't remain a profitable endeavour, we will all suffer.

Fun days in Stanhope

Despite dull weather and a constant threat of rain, the Stanhope Fun Days once again attracted an enthusiastic crowd.

Visitors were able to view a crafts exhibit and art show, dine on tasty bar-be-que beef and participate in numerous contests. On Sunday a field day, with events for all ages, was held in the field behind the firehall. The photo with events for all ages, was held in the field behind the firehall. The photos on this page and page one, record some of the activities which took place Saturday and Sunday.

4.5 mile run set for Thursday

The pavement of Minden area streets will ring with the slap of running shoes once again this Thursday as the annual Heineken Yard footrace is held.

The race will follow the usual route, starting at the entrance to Onondaga Camp and following County Road Two to Bobcaygeon Road, through Minden, to the finish line at the Rockcliffe Hotel. Runners can register at the starting point between 2:30 and 4:00 p.m. The race starts at 4:30 sharp.

There is no registration fee for the run and prizes will be awarded to those finishing first, second and third, first in the over 40 years of age class and first woman. Last year the first runner completed the 4.5 mile distance in 24 minutes, 17 seconds.

The organizers remind participants that parking is not available at the starting point and runners should be driven to the gate by a friend. Also, the runners are advised to plan for hot weather conditions by drinking plenty of fluids prior to the race and having a warm-up suit or fresh clothes waiting at the finish line.

As the runners pass through Minden a portion of the downtown main street will be closed to vehicular traffic.

Coming up

August 2: 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Red Cross Bazaar and Sale at the bank corner, downtown Minden. In case of rain, it will be held at the firehall.

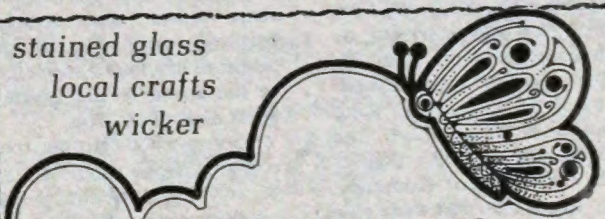

August 2: Giant rummage, bake and book sale in aid of Minor Hockey at Minden firehall.

August 4: 7:30 p.m. Free concert by Wiz Bryant of Canadian ballads at the Royal Canadian Legion, Haliburton Village. Sponsored by the Haliburton County Public Library.

August 5: 7:30 p.m. Horticultural Society Meeting in the Municipal building.

All non-profit community groups are invited to use this bulletin board as a reminder to local residents about their activity. Drop a note to The Times, Box 97, Minden or call 286-1288 to have it included.

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

The Chamber this week was pleased to receive an application for a membership from Mr. George Barna of Kenmore New York. George has been camping at Haliburton Forest and Wildlife for a number of years now and this year is spending a part of his vacation time conducting a survey for the benefit of the Highlands. This survey has been undertaken at his own initiative, on his own time, and at his own expense. The only apparent reason for doing so is his genuine concern for our area, and his desire to be of assistance.

Back in Kenmore, New York, George is involved in market research, consulting, and evaluation programs primarily involving campgrounds. When he has completed his survey he will make it available to all the campgrounds involved in it, and the Chamber. In the meantime, a number of his observations are worth noting.

We were certainly proud to hear that he found our Chamber to be one of the most active and aggressive organizations of its kind that he has run across. This is not on the other hand to say that we are actually accomplishing more than comparative organizations, just that we appear to attempt to do so without a great deal of participation directly by the members.

A major recommendation at this point was that members become more involved under the leadership of the Chamber to sell their own businesses. Although his interest lies mainly with campgrounds this observation could well apply to all types of membership in the Chamber.

If campground operators in the Highlands are willing to spend the day at a workshop this fall, George Barna has offered his assistance to help pull it together. Sounds like an offer we can't afford to refuse.

Railroad hearing

Over a hundred years ago this county was formed in order to build a railroad. Lacking a sufficient population to form a county a special act in parliament was passed to provide for the "Provisional County of Haliburton". Heavy debts were incurred by those pioneers to establish the railroad that the C.N.R. now wishes to abandon. If we are as concerned about the future of this county as our forefathers were we cannot stand idly by and watch this happen.

The new date for the hearing is September 9. This allows precious little time to adequately prepare a defence to this action.

Anyone who has used the railroad in the past, would use it now if it was in service, or can envisage using it in the future if service is established, should be preparing some kind of a presentation. The Haliburton County Economic Development Commission recognizes that their role in this issue should be one of providing assistance for anyone preparing a presentation. They are therefore now compiling a set of guidelines and suggestions to show what should or should not be included in a brief and how it should best be stated. They are fortunate that some expert advice has been offered to them for this purpose. If a copy of these guidelines would be of assistance to you call the Chamber office at 286-1760 and they will be provided.

Queen's Park promotes coming events

At a directors meeting of the Central Ontario Travel Association last week we were presented with an overview of the ministry's marketing plan for the current year. One major change that will be evident is the ministry's emphasis on advertising specific events and attractions. Examples were shown of full page newspaper and magazine advertisements, and radio and television commercials that plug these events for local communities. Of course, they cannot cover all the events and attractions throughout Ontario but they will select a good cross section from those that have been submitted and include the full list in their four coming events booklets that are published each year.

With this program operating, it becomes even more important than in the past that the Chamber be kept aware and up to date on events that are planned by the various community organizations. Due to poor communication in this regard the Chamber must often guess or make presumptions in regard to annual events, and several times this summer has found that the wrong information is being promoted.

The Haliburton Legion's Fiddle contest in July was cancelled and the Gooderham Ole Time Horseshoe Day date was changed without anyone advising this office. The Minden Rotary Carnival was presumed to run on the fourth Wednesday of July, while in fact it is running this week on the last Wednesday of July.

All of this resulted in a great deal of free publicity being generated that was incorrect and if we are to continue to get this kind of assistance we must maintain a higher degree of creditability for accurate information in the future.

We appeal to all those who are involved in community organizations throughout the county to please endeavor for your own sakes as well as ours to provide us with the information that will help us do this.

Coming events

This week in Minden, of course, it's the Minden Rotary Carnival with the special emphasis on a pioneer theme. Many merchants will be participating by decorating their stores and wearing period costumes. The addition of a major craft show at the arena should create a great deal of interest.

Next week it's Haliburton's turn to stage their annual Rotary Carnival and parade on Wednesday and the theme for their event will be "Unity". Their car draw will be held on Thursday at the Carnival. Also on Wednesday, August 6, the Carnarvon United Church are holding a summer

A new personal health information kit called "the vial of life" could help save your own or a family member's life.

The kit includes a decal showing a white "V" on a vivid red background. This sticker goes on the outside of the refrigerator door or can be put on the glove compartment of a car.

In case of an accident, medical personnel seeing the "V" will know that the person has this kit.

A sheet with enough space for the medical histories of four family members is provided, and has such pertinent facts on it as the state of the person's health, whether they are diabetic, suffer from heart trouble, or high blood pressure.

A space for current medications and dosages and whom to contact in case of an emergency is also included.

In addition, the name of the family doctor and the hospital to which the person prefers to be taken, are part of the required information.

The sheet is then rolled and placed in a small vial and attached to the top shelf of the refrigerator using an elastic band.

If the vial is put in the car's glove compartment, a similar method of attachment should be devised.

Full instructions on completing and attaching the form are included in the kit.

Robert Luke, of the Minden Ambulance Service, says, "Knowing what a person's medical history is a great help to us."

Luke explained that if ambulance attendants arrive at a home and find someone unconscious, there could be several reasons for it. If they see the "V" on the refrigerator door, they can immediately check to see what the cause might be and who to contact. Then proper treatment can be given.

He said that it can save a lot of time if all the important information is right there.

Asked why the vial should be put on the refrigerator, Luke noted many people now have their medication there and also it's the first place they look because they usually enter through the kitchen. The refrigerator also offers a certain degree of protection from fire.

The kit can be obtained from the doctors, the hospital or from the ambulance service.

There is no charge for the vial although donations are welcome.

This program has been successful in the United States where it has been in use for two years and is credited with saving at least six lives.

Luke urges people to get one of these vials as soon as possible and keep the medical data up to date.

He stressed that printing in block letters and in pencil will ensure easy reading for he and his staff.

If assistance in completing the form is necessary, Luke said to contact either the person's doctor or the ambulance service.

Bowlers complete first schedule

The first schedule of the 1980 season of the Minden Lawn Bowling Club ended Friday, July 25 with the play-offs followed by a most enjoyable pot luck supper.

The winning team for the four evening leagues was skipped by Helen Burton with vice, Henry Webert and lead, Percy Brintnell. The afternoon league was won by skip Tom Stinson and vice Hilda Harrison and Lead Sirri Mielonen.

After dinner Tom Stinson supplied music for modern and square dancing. He also gave instructions in square dancing to several interested members.

Over 60 of the 85 members on record were present for dinner.

The second series will commence on August 18. It was decided by majority vote that evening games will start at 7:30 p.m.

This has been a most successful venture for Minden and area residents and several enquiries have been received by President Don Sinclair from other Municipalities who have heard about our Club and are considering forming a similar group.

Open house attracts 1200 to acid rain laboratory

An open house at the Ontario Ministry of Environment acid rain laboratories in Dorset drew close to 1200 visitors this past weekend. According to a spokesman, ministry personnel were very pleased with the turnout, which was described as being more than had been anticipated.

The visitors had an opportunity to examine the equipment being used to assess the damage being done to area lakes. In addition, scientists and representatives from the Environment Ministry and Ministry of Natural Resources were on hand to answer the questions of the public.

MOE lab co-ordinator Ron Reid, left, below, explains a piece of the equipment to visitors, while outside a number of people examine the literature which was on display.

Sing your way across Canada

This land is your land, this land is my land ... the music of Canada, from Bona Vista to the Vancouver Island, will be featured this coming Monday evening as the Haliburton County Public Library System presents Wiz Bryant in Concert.

Bryant, a native of Penticton B.C., and now residing in Peterborough, will be presenting a selection of ballads gathered from all parts of Canada. As he weaves his musical trans-Canada trip, a series of slides will help the listeners identify the location or origin of each number.

The singer has chosen the format that gathers songs from all corners of the country because he feels there is a need for Canadians to come together. "I feel that through my songs, I am, in a small way, helping Canadians to feel a sense of pride in their country," the singer commented in a recent interview.

For the audience, the program will not be simply a matter of sitting back to listen. Bryant involves everyone in his cross-country musical journey and the audience is invited to join in many of the songs.

The show, which is sponsored by the Lake Ontario Regional Library System, will be presented at the Royal Canadian Legion in Haliburton, Monday August 4. Show time is 7:30 p.m. And, for those who feel that inflation has eaten too deeply into their spending money, the price is just right. Admission to the trans-Canada musical tour is free.

Body check is out for pee wee and under

There will be some changes in the rules governing minor hockey in the province for the coming season.

In a special bulletin issued earlier this month, The Ontario Minor Hockey Association has announced that body checking will not be permitted in pee wee and younger divisions. The complete announcement from OMHA is reprinted below:

A. - A minor penalty shall be assessed to any player who uses his body to check an opponent.

B. - A major penalty shall be assessed if injury results due to an infraction under this rule.

Note 1. - A body check is the action of deliberately using force when making body contact with the hips, shoulders or arms while attempting to play the puck or check an opponent who has the puck.

Note 2. - Skating a player off the puck along the boards is permitted and in such cases no penalty shall be assessed unless there is a motion to propel the opponent into the boards.

Note 3. - No penalty shall be assessed where players are skating for a loose puck and collide with no deliberate attempt to body check.

There is little doubt that Laura Kirkwood is bound to have good luck in the coming year. She found a six leaf clover along the banks of the Gull recently.

The plant, which usually comes with three leaves, is considered an omen of good luck if one is found with four. The six leaf configuration (in the photograph two of the leaves are hidden) was the result of two stems growing together.

Council backs lake association - request number of lots reduced

The developer of a subdivision of Soyers Lake will be asked to reduce the number of lots in the plan from 17 to 11. The request was contained in a resolution passed at the July 23 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council.

The decision to ask for a reduction in the number of lots came following a detailed presentation by Mr. L. McCorrison, president of the Soyers Lake Property Owners' Association.

The subdivision, on the southeast side of the lake, is being proposed by Couchiching Real Estate Ltd. Most of the lots in the subdivision exceed the 100 foot lakefront minimum required by the township's zoning by-law, but the president of the lake association said he felt that was not enough. "We would like a resolution passed which would make the minimum frontage (on the lake) for the lots 200 feet," the association spokesman said.

McCorrison pointed out that the minimum lake frontage in Dysart Township on Lake Kashagawigamog for seasonal residential development is 150 feet. He also noted that the Ontario government is currently carrying out a lake shore capacity study in Haliburton to determine the number of cottages any one lake can support. "We would like the council to set the frontage minimum at 200 feet or at least wait until next year when the government study is completed. We would be willing to live with the findings of that study," McCorrison stated.

The association president outlined the history of the lake organization and offered a number of examples of how property owners have protected the quality of the water. He noted that several property owners on the lake who secured severance in the past few years had limited the size of the new lots they created. In most cases the frontages were 150 feet or more. "I think this is a good example of the concern the present property owners have for the lake and the water quality," the spokesman stated.

"We think the 100 foot minimum for new lots on Soyers Lake is wrong," McCorrison stated, "and we would like the backing of the municipal council in this stand to prevent the subdivision to go ahead as planned."

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt noted that the 100 foot frontage requirement is the minimum set out in the township zoning by-law. He said that plans for any subdivision must be submitted to various government ministries for approval. "If the ministries feel the quality of water will be hurt by the development, they can register their objections," the reeve commented. He noted that the Ministry of Environment and Ministry of Natural Resources personnel are experts in their fields and that the council shouldn't be asked to "second guess" them.

Councillor Doug Pritchard commented that the council would be contravening its own zoning by-law if it set a higher restriction on frontage for only one lake in the municipality.

McCorrison claimed

Soyers Lake is overpopulated. At the moment there are 120 properties around the lake and 110 of those have cottages or residences on them.

"We want the council to reflect the concerns of the present ratepayers of the township," McCorrison commented, "not just the wishes of the developer. We want co-operation and support from our council," he pleaded.

Following a short break, Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt agreed with the spokesman for the property owners. He said the 150 foot limit should be requested in the Soyers Lake development. In response to a comment from Councillor Doug Pritchard, who wondered if that meant there would be new limits on other lakes in the township, Nesbitt stated that each lake would have to be considered on its own. "Each lake is an individual case," the reeve stated, "it depends on the size of the lake."

The council then endorsed a resolution calling on the developer to reduce the number of lots from 17 to 11 with a subsequent increase in the minimum lake frontage to 150 feet. This motion drew a round of applause and "thank you" from the many Soyers Lake property owners in attendance.

The request for rezoning of the proposed development from residential to seasonal residential was not dealt with. The matter will be considered after the developer has had an opportunity to consider the changes in the number of lots in the subdivision.

Pair injured in boating mishap

A 21 year old Mississauga man has a fractured vertebra and another man suffered facial lacerations after a boating accident last Tuesday (July 22) morning.

Both men were taken to Huntsville Hospital and are now reported to be in satisfactory condition.

George Smirnov, 21 and George Fedosson, 20 were travelling in a 17' boat that was powered by a 150 h.p. outboard motor.

They were headed toward the Smirnov cottage on Kawagama Lake, near Dorset, in the early hours of the morning.

The vessel struck an unnamed island and collided with a pine tree located about 15' onshore.

The tree fell over onto the vessel pushing it back into the water while the two occupants were still on board.

A neighbouring cottager heard the cries for help and towed the vessel and occupants to Old Mill Marine. The two men were then rushed to hospital.

The investigating officer, Constable Mike Smith, has not yet determined who was operating the vessel at the time of the accident.

The bear facts

Bears are common to Victoria - Haliburton Counties and cause many people to curtail or restrict their activities in enjoying the benefits offered by this area.

Bears are a part of nature and by their presence need not deter you from enjoying your stay or visit to the Minden District.

Our only native bear in this area is the black bear, which usually weighs between 150 to 200 pounds, occasionally exceeding 300 pounds in the wild. To survive the winter bears must forage constantly for food to build up reserves of fat to hibernate successfully. This is usually the reason for potential conflict with residents in the area.

There are a number of precautions that you as a visitor or resident can take to avoid conflict with bears.

Do not permit your refuse or garbage to accumulate. Take it to an authorized dumping site daily if necessary.

Do not store refuse or garbage in an enclosed building; garage, etc. If utilizing a tent, store food items in your vehicle trunk or place on a platform tied to a tree, well above the ground.

Keep food items in closed containers.

Do not retain grease (bacon fats, etc.) near the site you are occupying; bears have a keen sense of smell and are drawn to grease of any kind.

Do not turn any boat or canoe upside down that has contained fish or game. Bears are attracted by these odors and may damage the craft.

Do not approach a cub or young bear as the adult will be nearby and may consider your approach a threat to it's young.

Do not feed bears. You will encourage their presence and they will become bolder and more demanding.

Do not molest a bear, throw objects at it, or attempt to chase it. This may excite or irritate the bear into feeling it is threatened it may attack to protect itself.

Bears are not naturally antagonistic to mankind. Application of the above precautions should ensure safe contact and pleasant encounters with most bears.

The preceeding press release was prepared by Ministry of Natural Resources staff at the Minden office.

by Ron Reid of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

Insects that eat plants are commonplace in every forest or garden, but plants that eat insects are one of the strangest twists of nature. Insectivorous plants sound like they belong in some tropical exotic forest, but in fact we have several different kinds right here in Ontario.

Probably the best-known is the pitcher plant, whose rosettes of cup-shaped leaves grace many bogs. Rainfall trapped in these leaves mixes with enzymes secreted by the plants, so that insects or other small animals drowned in the liquid are easily digested. Their drowning is helped by a slippery lip on the cup, and dense rows of downward-pointing hairs inside to prevent escape.

The sundews are another family of insect-eaters common to wetland areas such as the Federation of Ontario Naturalists' Petrol Point sanctuary. These minute plants, with three species identified by the shape of the leaf, are covered with hairy bristles, each with a droplet of sticky fluid. When an insect lands on these glistening drops, it is mired in adhesive, and then enveloped in tentacles for digestion over the next several days. These deceptively pretty sundews are found in various forms around the world, including a Portuguese variety five feet tall which is collected by local villagers as natural flypaper for their homes.

Most insectivorous plants are marked by two distinctive features. First, their leaves usually have reddish veins as markings, to help attract insects to their death. Second, insect-eaters occur in nutrient-poor areas, such as bogs, where the extra nitrogen provided by the insects is needed for their growth and survival. The famous scientist Charles Darwin was the first to show the importance of this carnivorous diet, since the sundews he fed artificially produced more vigorous growth and more flowers and seed than those kept from insects.

Insectivorous plants can be remarkably efficient fly-catchers, but their specialized habitat is uncommon in Ontario. They won't grow in your backyard, so there's little hope you could use sundews for mosquito control in your neighbourhood.

History comes alive for students at Dorset

- by Sue Scott -

I really had to go digging for the facts of this story when I accompanied a group of high school archeology students on an expedition to an excavation site near Dorset.

Bright and early Wednesday morning at 8:30 we were on our way to the site, located on an old section of Highway 35, about three miles north of the Leslie Frost Centre, near the Sherbourne Lake access road.

The students spent part of each day of last week at the site as part of their three week summer course sponsored by the Wellington County Board of Education.

The students, 15 of them this year, gain a credit in the Canadian Studies course that goes toward their high school diploma.

Led by teacher Ken Oldridge, the future archeologists used scuba equipment to search a nearby river for artifacts as well as land digs in selected areas.

The site itself was discovered by one of the historical consultants for the Centre, Joe Stocking, in 1975.

He was driving along the highway and noticed the unusual forest formation along an overgrown section of a sideroad. The site is known as the Peter Heenen site.

The area showed signs of being inhabited. Stocking made a note of the area and later contacted the Wellington County school to see if they were interested in doing a study.

A licence from the Ministry of Culture and Recreation was obtained for permission to work there, and authorization was given to have all artifacts put on display at the Dorset Centre.

This course is only one of two offered in the province. The other is backed by the Royal Ontario Museum.

The students undergo a two-week training in which they learn the basics of archeology.

They visit sites such as the one near Dorset and museums like the Halton County Regional Museum, Camp Kandalore and the Ontario Agricultural Museum.

When they are not out at a site, the students have two hour lecture sessions which cover things like cleaning, cataloguing and restoring artifacts.

Since this is a credit course, the students are graded on assignments such as what they observe during their museum visits, their notetaking ability during field work and camping skills.

However, Oldridge admitted, "A lot of it is subjective. I can tell after a short time if a student is really interested."

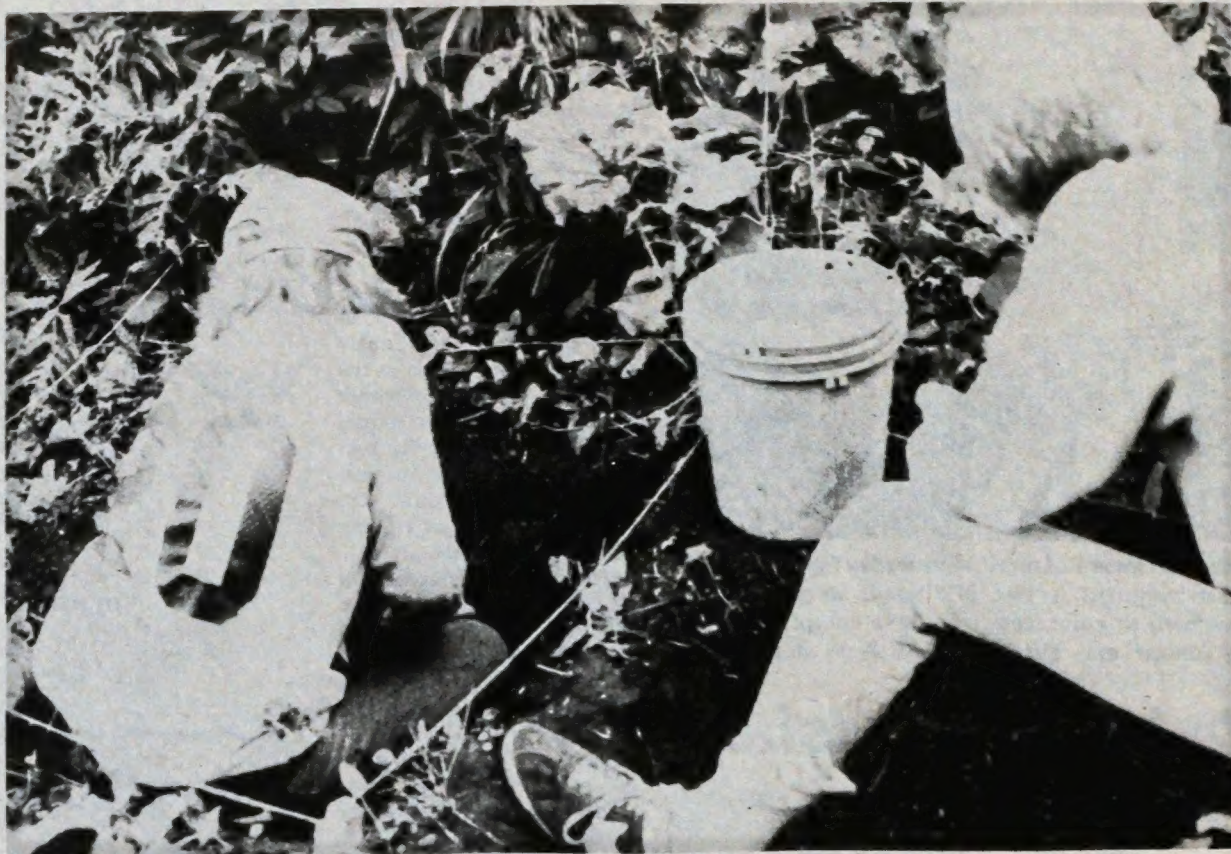

He added that this year's group was one of the best and that many of them brought a knowledge of camping and canoeing with them.

This is the fourth year that the school has brought students to Dorset for their practical training. Hopefully, said Oldridge the work will be finished this year.

The students had some help with the diving from five members of the Haliburton County Diving Club.

Most of the items, pipes, assorted bottles, logging tools and utensils dated back from the 1850's to 1890's.

The remains of a building were discovered on the site.

Students carefully sift through freshly exposed ground looking for relics from the past. The youths were participating in a high school credit course as they took part in an archeological dig near Dorset.

Only the wall, or part of a wall, are there now, but research has proven that the building faced onto the Black River.

A look back into the history books reveals that the structure was a monitoring station (for regulating the flow of large white pine logs along the Black River) that was leased to the Gilmour Lumber Co. although the land was patented to Longford Lumber in April 1891.

In the patent, the waters of Wren and Black Rivers were excluded from the agreement.

One reason for having the station situated in that spot could be because that point was a critical juncture between Raven and Wren Lakes.

Another piece of information reveals that the building might only have been in use between 1892 - 1897; bankruptcy causing the shut-down.

As early as 1859, some thought that a cottage had been built on the site but no trace has yet been discovered.

If it is true, however, it is possible that the Gilmour station was erected near the same spot.

At first, I didn't expect them to find as much although Oldridge said that they were finding a multitude of items.

But, the enthusiasm to persevere was there, because they were digging up more than a few artifacts. The students really enjoyed finding the items and each find fueled their interest in the search.

The students were obviously keenly aware of the background of the artifacts. An old bottle was found by one of the Haliburton divers and Oldridge called one of his students over. Oldridge handed him the bottle and the student knew immediately what company had made it and what it was used for. Oldridge hadn't even said a word but smiled proudly as the student recognized correctly the origin of the artifact.

Later, Oldridge said that archeology is sort of a team effort. No one person knows everything and collaboration amongst the people usually resulted in someone being able to identify an object.

Most of the students were happy with the things they were learning and discovering. As one girl put it, "It's better than being stuck in a classroom."

Ken Oldridge became interested in the study of archeology because he uncovered an old Indian arrowhead when he was young.

He followed up with several years of reading on archeology and then spent a few summers going on digs to France, Spain, Israel and England. He has continued to study classical archeology.

After the digging and diving for artifacts, cataloging must be done and Oldridge has to prepare a government report to be submitted to the Ministry of Culture and Recreation.

The report will include a summary of the site, the physical geography of the land and pictures and descriptions of what was found and where.

The students seemed deeply involved in what they were doing and it was obvious the field trips were the highlight of their course.

When one girl was asked what she would be doing in the afternoon, she said with a groan that they would be going to some museum with old canoes and things.

New gift shop for Minden

Highlands residents and visitors have an interesting new shop to visit when they are looking for a special gift.

Highlands Jewellery and China Shoppe, on St. Germaine Street, across from the Brewer's Retail, opened its doors for business last month. Since then it has been attracting a steady stream of shoppers.

The store features a wide selection of quality china items and figurines. Many of these are products of world renowned craftsmen, such as Royal Doulton. Barbara Stokes, who with her husband Glen operate Sider's Jewellery and China in Fenelon Falls, describes many of the items she sells as a hedge against inflation.

Barbara notes that many of the items have increased in value since they were first produced. As a matter of fact, collectors of figurines can join associations and subscribe to magazines that will keep them abreast of the latest trends in the industry. The local shop has a splendid hard cover book on character jugs. For the serious collector, it will be an important source of information and for the casual reader it is a pleasure to read about the history of each figurine.

Barbara points out that there is a story behind most of the figurines. Many of them can be traced back to the Victorian era when nobility were often used as models for the characters. It is at the Highlands Jewellery and China Shoppe that one will find the famous Balloon Lady, perhaps not nobility, but certainly famous.

But the shop, which will be managed by Barbara's daughter, Suzanne, stocks more than figurines.

On display is an excellent selection of collectors plates, lead crystal, gold and silver jewellery and specialty gift items. Shoppers will also find a watch repair service, ear piercing, engraving and trophy service available.

Grooms will be able to find that diamond ring they have been looking for, while a bridal registry is being started so that friends can be sure what they are purchasing match the style being collected by the bride-to-be.

"We are new in the area", Barbara commented, "but we are interested in meeting the needs of the people who live here. We want to respond to local trends, and we're willing to be flexible. If the shoppers don't see what they are looking for, they should ask. Chances are we can get it for them."

Suzanne Stokes is the manager of the Highlands Jewellery and China Shoppe which opened this summer on St. Germaine Street near South Water Street.

Work started earlier this week on the site for the new library. Trucks delivered loads of fill to the site as preparations were started for the laying of the cement pad. The library is to be built several feet above the level of the Bobcaygeon Road to avoid drainage problems. A township grader is seen above levelling the soil as municipal officials watch the progress.

Road raised - water problem

Township council has agreed to attempt to clear up a drainage problem in front of the funeral home in Minden.

The owner of the home, Gord Monk, appeared before council at the July 23 meeting to explain the situation to the councillors.

Monk told the council that prior to 1978 he had little problem with water from Bobcaygeon Road. However, at that time, the municipal sewer and water system was installed and the surface of the road was raised. The result was that the road is now higher than the sidewalk in front of the funeral home.

The businessman told the council that because of the higher road surface two storm drains along the street do not function properly because some of the water drains away from them. Monk blamed this poor drainage for problems he has had with stained carpeting and damaged walls in the building. He said that water standing in puddles on the street is splashed onto his property by passing cars.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt admitted there was a problem with drainage in front of the funeral home and noted that the situation had been aggravated by the opening of the new county road. He said the council would attempt to have the height of the road surface reduced when Bell Canada completes construction work in that area later this summer.

$24,000 damage as truck strikes rocks

A 33 year old Quebec man was taken to Minden hospital with minor injuries after his vehicle struck a rock cut on Horseshoe Lake Road.

The accident caused $24,000 to Real Gaudet's 1980 Kenworth tractor trailer unit.

Gaudet, from Boisbriand, was driving south on Horseshoe Lake Road 1 when he cross the Mirror/Horseshoe bridge and struck the rockface.

The accident occurred on July 22 at 3 a.m. Constable Al Barnes investigated.

$1100 damage

Eleven hundred dollars damage was done to a 1980 car in a mishap that occurred on July 21.

Frank Tassone, 17, of Pickering was stopped on Hwy. 519, near Haliburton, in his 1968 pickup.

The car driven by Doris Anderson, 59, of Oshawa came to a stop behind the Tassone truck. When Tassone attempted to drive his vehicle away, it was in reverse and slammed into the Anderson car. Tassone's vehicle was not damaged.

Constable Barry Connelly was the investigating officer. The time of the accident was 7:30 p.m.

Charge laid

A 16 year old Haliburton youth has been charged with careless driving following an accident July 22.

Alan J. Espie of Haliburton was charged after the vehicle he was driving collided with a car driven by John H. Woods, 59, of Kingston.

According to the police, the Woods vehicle had stopped on Highway 121 in Haliburton, prior to turning into a parking lot, when the car driven by Espie struck the stopped car from the rear.

The Woods vehicle sustained $2500 damage while damage to the Espie vehicle was estimated at $800.

Constable Brian Dunham was in charge of the investigation.

Council studies flood plans

What would you do if the Orillia Power and Light Company dam on the Gull River gave away? Certainly the torrent of water that would be released by such a hypothetical situation would wreak havoc over a large part of Minden Village.

The local Red Cross Society has a contingency plan for disaster emergencies and the Minden OPP detachment is currently creating a similar emergency plan.

The Anson, Hindon and Minden council is also looking into the matter as a result of a booklet distributed by the Ministry of Natural Resources. Entitled "planning for Flood Emergencies," the booklet was received at the July 23 meeting of the council and prompted several members of the council to consider the possibility.

Reeve Sinclair Nesbitt said the municipality should have a contingency plan ready in case of serious flooding along the Gull River. He noted that a break in the dam, for example, would probably damage or inundate the two bridges. He suggested that the council should have a plan for such an emergency.

Camp theft

An 18 year old Rexdale man will appear in court August 26 charged with theft and possession of stolen property over $200.

Michael Eng was charged after property from Camp Trailfinder and property from another person at the camp was reported stolen.

Camera equipment and binoculars valued at over $500 were later found in Eng's belongings.

The incident occurred on July 22. Constable Bill Clendenning investigated.

Kennel corner

The following dog is available for adoption. Those requiring more information about the pet can contact the Minden Animal Clinic, at 286-2919.

Border Collie, approximately one to two years of age, female. The dog has black and white markings, is very friendly and would make an ideal pet for children.

New director at local funeral home

Haliburton County has a new funeral director.

Margaret Frise joins the staff of the Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home in Minden this Friday for her first full-time position since obtaining her licence in June.

The funeral business is one that has always appeared to be the domain of men. Apparently appearances are deceiving, and certainly times are changing.

According to Margaret, a native of Richmond Hill, there were ten males in the funeral service class of 110 at Humber College in Toronto when she started two years ago. In addition, Margaret points out that many wives and daughters of funeral directors held licences in the past.

Gord Monk, the operator of the funeral home in Minden, noted that during his apprenticeship, he trained with two women who were licenced funeral directors.

"Many families are more comfortable with a female director," Margaret points out. "They feel more at ease dealing with a woman and this can be very important considering the strain and anxiety the family may be feeling at the time."

Margaret's interest in the business goes back several years when a friend of her brother's was taking the Humber College course. At that time she had an opportunity to read a number of the texts used in the course and this heightened her interest.

"I have always had an

interest in people," she commented.

The Humber College course covers a two year period. The first year is school training during which the students learn all the aspects of the trade from embalming to business management to provincial and federal health and safety regulations. Courses include studies in psychology, human relations, business management, and anatomy, among others.

Having successfully completed the school term, Margaret then spent a year as an apprentice in Kingston. She completed that term in June, heard about the opening at the Minden funeral home and applied.

The Minden location appealed to Margaret, "...because I wanted to get away from the city. In a smaller community you can provide more personal service because, you get to know people you are serving."

Margaret also enjoys the out-of-doors and is looking forward to cross-country skiing on Haliburton trails and other activities in the Highlands.

Bea Gilbank marks 90th

Mrs. Beatrice Jane Gilbank celebrated her ninetieth birthday on Saturday at the home of her son-in-law, Harry Cowen, in Ingoldsby.

Mrs. Gilbank was born in Poole Dorset, England and came to Montreal when she was 10.

She recalls crossing the Atlantic with her aunt and uncle but then another family took her in and raised her.

As a child, she remembers making tea biscuits before rushing off to school and she recalls milking the cow and enjoying fresh milk and cream.

Mrs. Gilbank said that she lived on the farm until she was married. Throughout her life she has had several residences.

She lived in Woodbridge for about 45 years then went to Toronto before moving to the Haliburton area.

Most of Mrs. Gilbank's 42 great grand children, 20 grand children, and 11 great great grandchildren and eight children were there to wish her a happy birthday on her special day.

Haliburton-Victoria MPP John Eakins presents Bea Gilbank with a congratulatory plaque signed by Ontario Premier William Davis. The presentation was made Saturday as the Ingoldsby resident celebrated her ninetieth birthday. Greetings were also received from Prime Minister Trudeau. Family and friends gathered to help Mrs. Gilbank celebrate her special day.

SENIOR LEAGUE

by Linda English

We began the week of activities at Hyland Crest with a kick or two at fun and fitness. Wilbert Sisson was the winner at darts after a play-off with Bill Deacon.

In the afternoon the ladies went to the craft room where some of them are starting new projects.

We are using seeds to make some very original wall plaques. If any readers would like to save seeds, we would really appreciate getting them.

Monday evening was movie time in the auditorium. Several residents watched three very interesting films. "The Wallcovering Story", and "Creation" told us how wallpaper is made and designed. The numerous patterns and textures makes it hard to choose just the right one.

"The Great Tomato Harvest" gave us a tour of the tomato farm at Leamington, Ontario. This area has perfect soil for growing tomatoes, and has the largest amount of greenhouses anywhere. The tomatoes are hand picked and delivered to canneries around the clock. 300,000 tons of tomatoes a year are processed, and the canneries employ over 200,000 workers.

Tuesday morning, Jimmy Cooper held service in the chapel. It was nice to have Agnes Taylor back with us to play the organ for our hymns.

It was a beautiful day on Wednesday, so we decided to have a bar-b-que in the back yard. Mark Schell cooked some tasty hamburgers and hot dogs, and served ice cream cones for dessert.

We were happy to have Lorne and Grace Coburn and Carrie and Percy Drysdale with us as invited guests. These people are our neighbours and also work very hard for our auxiliary.

I would like to thank all the staff for helping with the bar-b-que and making it possible. The residents always enjoy getting outside, and the different taste the bar-b-que gives a hamburger.

The Anglican Church Women of Minden brought a variety of squares, tea breads and sandwiches for the tea party on Thursday afternoon. It was nice to visit with these ladies and enjoy their delicious food.

It was our pleasure to welcome Grace Coburn and Lucille Clarke to lead the sing song on Friday afternoon. Grace sang "Amazing Grace" beautifully and we enjoyed the Irish jigs played by Mrs. Clarke.

Saturday afternoon we loaded the bus and went to the Stanhope Fire Hall for the Senior Citizen's Tea. We were treated royally as always by the Stanhope people and our residents really enjoyed the day.

Farm News and Views

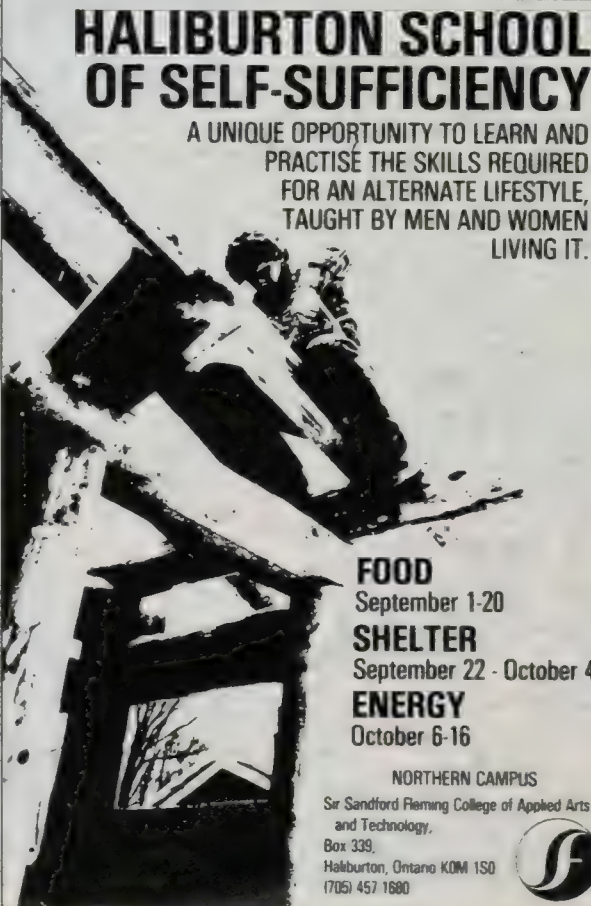

Victoria County 4-H members had an opportunity to test their skills on July 23rd at the Lindsay Fairgrounds. Fifty-two members judged livestock and field crop classes, identified weeds, feeds, seeds and machinery parts and wrote a quiz. 4-H club leaders discussed what to look for in judging the various classes.

4-H members were scored on how they placed each class of 4 animals or crop samples. They also gave reasons for justifying their placings.

A class of Hereford heifers was supplied by Dr. Bob Watson and family. John Hope provided a Holstein 3-year-old class, Gord Mark a class of Dorset lambs and market hogs from Jim Brown's farm. Classes of hay and haylage were judged.

Monday August 4 will be the free presentation of Ballads of Canada with Wiz Bryant at the Legion Hall in Haliburton at 7:30. This is through Lake Ontario Regional Library Services, so hope you take time to enjoy this.

Bradley Robinson is home again after a fine tour of some of Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Coulter and Kimberley of Ottawa and Mrs. Leslie Coulter and Amber of Kirkfield visited on Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Angus Coulter.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Mrs. Margaret Austin and Paul Sawyer, whose funerals were since last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Hughes and girls of Mississauga spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hughes and the girls stayed on for a few days.

All their friends send good wishes to these people who have been in hospital or are now at home: Ethel Leigh, Mrs. E. Windover, Len Hamilton, Marjorie Shuyler and Lewis Stevens.

Don't forget these seniors having birthdays at Hyland Crest Home: Ethel Robinson, August 6, Dorothy Martin, August 10, Isabella Avery, August 16, Eliza Chalmers, August 19, Alma Rutter, August 21, Viola Deumo, August 27, Alberta Webber, August 29 and Ernest Berry August 25.

We welcome Keith and Isa Taylor back to this area from Toronto and they are residing at the Jimmy Taylor Home near Hart Lodge.

Hi! July holidays are drawing to a close for a lot of people.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright and Kelly have gone back to the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and Francis have gone home also, but will be up on weekends.

Lorne and Louise Smith are up to their cottage on vacation.

Fran Crawford, who used to drive the school bus from the Kinmount way, phoned from out west. She says hello to everyone.

Wayne and Sally Peterson and Sally's Uncle Haigh were up visiting in the area. Mr. Haigh is from Orillia. Wayne and Sally are from Honeywood.

The Lake Ontario Regional Library System, is putting on a free concert at the the Royal Canadian Legion in Haliburton on Monday, August 4. It is called 'Ballads of Canada' as performed by Wiz Bryant. So do come. I'm sure you'll enjoy yourselves. It starts at 7:30 p.m.

If the summer is dragging for you, especially with the weather we've had, come to the library. We have books that will please everyone and craft books to help you while away your time.

The Guild of Fine Arts had a good response to their ticket sale for the 'Winter Concert Series'. But they have a few more to sell, so please get in touch with the ladies, they'll be glad to sell you a ticket. Seeing and hearing Maureen Forrester is well worth the price of the tickets alone.

Garry and Scott Wilson with Frank Dunsford went fishing up to the East River on the weekend. Sandy, Scott and Lindsey will be staying at the Dunford's for a week's holidays.

Steve and Betty Fox are

We wonder how there will be vegetables to show at the fair on August 9. First of all our frost taking the tender growth, then the continual rain and how do you get to weed this weather?

Lorraine and Arthur Burge of Elvington, Kent, England and Marie and Fred Hillier of Fenelon Falls visited the Ron Galloways at their cottage on Canning Lake recently.

Records and Tapes store on Main Street was Karen Stewart of Minden.

Coming events are the Gigantic Rummage, Bake and Book Sale by the Minor Hockey at the firehall Saturday, August 2, rain or shine; a Bake Sale on the bank lawn for Red Cross also August 2. Then the County Horticultural Society will meet at the Municipal Building Tuesday, August 5 at 7:30 with speaker District Director Mr. Shea, and final plans to be made for the Flower Show of August 15. We also hear there will be a lawn sale behind Mae's on August 2 as well.

Surely hope the rain is over by Wednesday, so that the Rotary Club will have a successful Carnival.

We never remember seeing the river so high in the summer months, nor so much water in the lakes, as well. Drive carefully. Cheerio until next time.

Lines from Lutterworth by Jean Lacey back home from a week's holidays.

Here's some interesting ideas from a new Lutterworth resident:

If you are invited to a baby shower on the spur-of-the-moment and have none of the traditional gifts, here's an idea that went over well at Lutterworth Pines on Saturday for a shower for Heather Bolton. Gather a fruit basket and present it one item at a time, with the following notes attached.

2 bananas - since it takes two to tangle (or monkey around)

1 apple - to keep the doctor away.

1 handfull of cherries - Life can be a bowl of cherries, but 2 a.m. feeding and dirty diapers can be "the pits".

1 baby bottle of perfume for "Mom" - because everything else was given to "Baby" and "Mom" often is forgotten.

1 peach - hoping the baby is "a real peach".

1 jar of pickles and ice cream (Or Mr. Freeze if ice cream could melt) - the "craving jokes!"

1 plum - just "plum" happy for you.

1 nectarine - Nectar is gathered by honey bees from flowers, and used to nourish the new brood. When 2 people love each other, and decide to bring a child into the world, their love will nourish the child, helping him/her to grow strong and secure.

Let's hope next month brings us better weather. If we get much more rain we'll be sprouting fins and gills.

Hint of the Week

Washing Your Car: Instead of washing your car with soap & water, try washing with a bucket of water and 1 cup of kerosene followed by a good wiping with soft cloths. The best part of it is that no matter how dirty your car is it will not need wetting down before starting, or rinsing once you have finished. When it rains the car will actually bead off water. It helps prevent rust. Use no wax with this method.

He who cannot forgive others breaks the bridge over which he himself must pass.

Bye for now. Take it easy. God bless till next time.

Choosing a babysitter

A good babysitter can be a parent's best friend. Choosing a babysitter is often a difficult task, especially for new parents. However, there are a number of things parents can do to make that choice easier.

First, make sure you really know your sitter. Try to find a babysitter who knows your children. The sitter may be from the neighbourhood or be a friend of the family.

Consider the personality of your sitter. Is this a dependable, careful person in good health who enjoys children? Remember that your children are often influenced by people nearer to their own age. Babysitting is often a learning experience for both the sitter and the children.

A good policy to follow is to ask the sitter to arrive a bit early on the first visit. Not only will this help the babysitter, but it will give parents the opportunity to explain the usual routines, such as bedtimes and meal-times. Walk the babysitter through the home explaining how the stove and other appliances operate, and where light switches are located. As well, check all windows and doors. Point out emergency or alternative exits.

Emergencies can happen. Let your sitter know where you can be reached, and prepare an emergency telephone list. Doctors, hospitals, neighbors or relatives should be listed. This list is best kept near the telephone and shown to sitters on their arrival.

A general mistake made by parents and babysitters is to leave all the lights on making the home look like a Christmas tree. Only those lights normally turned on should remain on. A porch light not usually on draws extra attention to the house and may indicate that the parents are not at home. Drapes also should be kept closed at night. Inform your sitter that the doors should be kept locked at all times and not to answer the door unless the person is known.

As many babysitters are in their teens, and it is often late when you return home, it's a good thing to make sure your sitter has a ride home. After dark is no time for a young person to be walking home or hitching a ride. You can always walk the sitter home.

To help both parents and babysitters, the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services has published a pamphlet entitled, "Can You Babysit tonight?" This pamphlet has suggestions about what a good sitter should know about holding and feeding a baby as well as games which a child might like to play with the sitter. It also has a list of safety rules which a sitter should follow in the event of an emergency and points out potential household dangers to avoid.

Copies are available for 25 cents from: Ontario Government Bookstore Publications Centre, 5th Floor, 880 Bay Street, Toronto, Ontario M7A 1N8.

One loader without operator will be required at Patterson's Corners.

(b) Tender No. 11-80-47

Front-end loaders, with suitable cab, on rubber tires, having a standard size bucket of at least 7/8 cu. yds. (SAE rated). The bucket width must be wider than the front wheels, but not to exceed 86 inches. The cutting edge clearance when the bucket is dumped at 45 degrees will be 9 feet 10 inches minimum. (Extension arms added to loaders will not be accepted.) The reach when the bucket is dumped with a 9 foot 10 inch cutting edge clearance will be 2 feet 4 inches ahead of the machine. In keeping with the new 527 Equipment Rental Rates the minimum operating weight will be 13,000 lbs.

One loader without operator will be required at each of the following locations: Mactier, Parry Sound, Gravenhurst, Glen Orchard, Huntsville, Emsdale, Dwight, Dorset, Minden and Haliburton.

Sealed tenders on forms supplied by the Ministry will be received by the District Engineer, MR. D.A.O. White, until 1:30 p.m. on WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 27, 1980

Specifications, tender forms, and envelopes may be obtained in person or by mail from the District Office, 207 Main St., W., Huntsville, Ontario, POA 1K0. Telephone (705) 789-2391.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of a dear son, and brother
DEREK C.H. WALKER who passed away suddenly
August 5, 1978.

Two years have quickly gone
Just as quick as a song is sung.
Why it seems like only yesterday
Because he was so young.

His little smile is gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch
Still we have a memory
Of a little boy, we love so much.

God put his arms around him
And called him to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful
For he always takes the best.
Sadly missed and never to be forgotten,
Jim, Sharon & Stacey Marie
